FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 1870:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

-In New York, yesterday, gold closed at

-Cotton closed steady at 224 cents -In Liverpool cotton closed quiet and steady. Uplands 101; Orleans 11 allid. -One firm in a Minnesota town shipped 40,000 rat skins to market last week.

- "Shoo-fly" has boddered Bryant's Minstrels to the extent of about $10,000 clear gain.

-An important meeting has been held at Quebec to encourage manufactures, which, the speakers declared, could be carried on in that city more cheaply than almost in any other part of the world. -General Walker reports that the Chinese imported by him to work on the Texas Central Bailroad labor steadily with docility, and evince not the slightest inclination to strike. He is

-Richmond wants the James River deepened from 13 to 18 feet, and $200,000 to do it with. A committee has been urging the matter upon Congress; $22,500, it is said, sufficed in 1852 to give a depth of 13 feet where there was but 10 before. The appropriation of $200,000 they say will assuredly give 18 feet now.

... The reports from fifty-one oil districts in increase in dally productions in twenty-one districts of seven hundred and ninety barrels. and an aggregate decrease in twenty-six districts of three hundred and sixty-three barrels, there being no change in three districts. The net increase of daily production was, therefore, four hundred and twenty-seven barrels.

-A new bill for the regulation of peddling is announced in the Massachusetts Legislature. Among the articles enumerated in which peddlers are forbidden to traffic are indigo and jewely. The reasons alleged for these prohibitions are indicative of a belief that the class of salesmen who disposed of wooden hams has by no means lost its cunning. Jewelry is not permitted because of the facility with which the spurious manufacture can be passed off as genuine; and there is a clay in Connecticut that can be so colored that oneeighth part of indigo is sufficient to make it saleable a the pure dye.

-As a melancholy interest attaches to every incident that possibly may afford a clue to the fate of the City of Boston, the following, from the log of the brig Iaboatia, at New York, from Pernambuco, is worth placing on record: "March 22d, at 6 P. M., passed through a large quantity of wreck stuff, consisting of panel works, deck houses, &c., which appeared to have been not long in the water. Also passed Fall canvass by the outspoken determination a boat, bottom up; the boat was varnished. The wreck stuff extended for a distance of two miles." Regret is expressed that the captain, did not make an effort to secure the boat or obtain some other proof of identity.

-The Darien expedition has reached Caledonia Bay and started upon its work of exploration, and all connected with the expedition are very sanguine of success in discovering an easy route for the construction of a ship canal. Contrary to the general expectation the Indians have thus far been very friendly, though somewhat frightened, and have assisted the explorers in every possible way. The expedition has already cut a road three miles in length into the interior, meeting with a river which is said to flow into the Pacific Ocean. Captain Heine, an American, who arrived at Aspinwall by the stea. iship Alaska, on the 1st instant, claims that he knows of a route across the Darien superior to all others, to be held in June next cannot touch Federal by which he can pass from Aspinwall to Panama entirely by water. In proof of this assertion he chartered a small sailboat, and, accompanied by two men, had starte I on his voyage, arriving safely at Caledonia, but when he will put in an appearance at Panama it is not easy

_*Mack." the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, recites the following prosperity, and which shall stand a good painful narrative. "In conversation with a chance of election. No thought of Republivery intelligent and accomplished lady from Maine a few days since, I learned the following facts, which throw a shadow of a sad romance over the Oneida disaster. Commander Williams, the highest officer on the vessel. and one of the lost, was a widower, of something less than forty, and the father of two bright little children. In May last he contracted an engagement for a second marriage, which was to have taken place very soon after the arrival of the Onei la in the country. I bepost on the quarter-deck. Since the first of January his two children and his intended wife have died. When he left Japan he had not heard this sad news, but supposed he was coming home to meet them all in health and happiness. So to one, at least, of the gallant

-Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe must be happy, if we are to believe the story of an unmannerly "interviewer" who recently thrust his unwelcome face into her presence in the quiet of her winter home among the orange groves of Florida. Here, he says, he found Professor Stowe and the little Stowes. To start with, this ubiquitous quilldriver asserts that the Professor furnishes suggestions for Beecher! Then he thinks Harriet looks care- teenth amendment.

worn, and tells us that when warm weather arrives, she and her two daughters will return to the East, while Fred. Stowe, his cousin, and the wife of the same and a buxom baby, will remain to run the plantation. The property of the Stowes consists of a two-story house. constructed of yellow pine, with a neatly decorated portico. The inquisitive scribe even bouse, where he found both at the head and foot of each bed illuminated placards, with extracts from the Bible printed thereon. The product of the orange groves will average about eight hundred oranges to a tree, and sell from $3 50 to $5 per hundred. Between the river line and the orange grove is a large tract of lowland where Mrs. Stowe is cultivating the India-rubber tree and sugar-cane. The negroes on the plantation are paid $16 a month. When Fred. attempts to be strict with them they promptly retort; but it Mrs. Stowe speaks only one word to them they are gentle. The estate where all this delicious comfort is enjoyed cost the Stowe family but $2500, cash.

Gutta-Percha.

The Radicals begin to realize that a party may overreach itself. It may become too virtuous, as in the case of Whittemore and of fact, the bad people do not always come to Ames. It may become too reckless, as in the case of Sickles and Butler. It is notorious that the poor Darlington parson has been sacrificed for doing what everybody in Congress is doing, and that the Mississippi senator is quashed by reasons that would extinguish the Governor of South Carolina And everybody knows that the most abandoned pimp of the Bowery represents the United States in the proudest monarchy of Europe. There is reason to fear that outrages of this sort will become precedents.

It is said that on a certain occasion, Quin, the famous Irish wit, was disputing concerning the execution of Charles I of England. "By what laws," said his opponent, "was he "put to death?" Quin replied: "By all the 'laws that he had left them!"

This story has a moral for us. For ter years the Radicals have overthrown every law that opposed their designs. They have imprisoned, released, disfranchised, enfranchised, taxed and bullied whom they pleased. They have threatened the Chief Justice, snubbed the President, confiscated the telegraph offices, seized the accounts of firms and companies, and ravaged and rampaged in every direction. Now that a new party is soon to come into power, what is to prevent some of these law-breakers-say the two Butlers-from being put into the penitentiary? Cannot Massachusetts spare the one as easily as Tennessee the other; and is there any law whatever to forbid their being hung in effigy-or otherwise?

The Radicals are playing a dangerous game in making the law dependent upon the caprices of a majority. When, in a year or two, the South and the West control Congress, it will be simple pity that will spare the Pennsylvania regions show an aggregate the fools and the knaves of Massachusetts, who now mould the government to their will.

As we are in a story-telling humor, we will mention another incident from English history. The English lawyers, following the venerable Sergeant Maynard, waited upon the Prince of Orange, afterwards King William, on his arrival in London. The Prince took notice of the great age of the sergeant, who was then near ninety. "Sir," said he, "you have outlived all the "men of the law of your younger years." And Maynard replied: "I should have out-"lived even the law itself, if your Highness "had not arrived." Such is precisely our condition. Unless the CITIZENS' PARTY prevails in our country, no law remains.

Our Own Polley.

The Winnsboro' News, which is still of the opinion that it is impossible to keep Federal politics out of the Fall canvass or the June Convention, declares itself in favor of a new national party and calls upon THE CHARLESrox News to show its hand.

Upon the first point, it is sufficient to say that Federal politics will be kept out of the of the people to select and sustain for State and county office the best men whom they can get, whether these men voted for Grant or for Seymour in the elections of 1868. There is no Federal issue, direct or indirect, to be decided in the State canvass. All that we have to do, and desire to do, is to pull down the bad and set up the good, to remove corrupt and incapable officials and replace them by men who will serve the public faithfully and well. Whites and blacks, Democrats and Republicans, think, and will work, together. The common danger has caused disinterested differences of thought and habit to be set aside. Our one great want is, an able and honest State Govern-MENT. To obtain this is the aim and object ral politics. It is a convention, not of Democrats or Republicans, but of the people of the State who are "in favor of a good and "honest government." This is all. And the convention, in our judgment, can do no more than nominate a State ticket, which shall promise some degree of security and canism or Democracy can govern the delibe rations of a convention whose wise action is of the first importance to every good citizen, whatever his politics or race. Our Winnsboro' contemporary wishes THE NEWS to show its hand. This is easily done. The policy of THE NEWS IS THE PROSPERITY of South Carolina. This can best be secared at this time by avoiding both Democ-Heve it was fixed for the middle of April. So Runs the World Away. A Novel. By Mrs. A. C. Steele, Author of "Gardenhurst." New York: Harper & Bros. Charleston: John Fresh, bright, peculiar-this new novel with its pretty suggestive title, is worth a special notice in these days of fustian. Far above the insinuated himself into the bedrooms of the average in style, incident and dramatic portraiture, it is thoroughly original and unusually true to nature. Frankly, its morality is rather that of the world than of the cloister; it deals with living mer and women, and not with carefully manipulated automata. Mrs. Steele s not one of those "flattering painters" who draw men as they ought to be, not as they 'are." She has studied life carefully, and she writes with a truthfulness that is startling sometimes in its freedom from conventional hypocrisies. Yet she is neither vulgar, nor indelicate, nor uncleanly-and we who have seen "Oulda" and read (not loved) "Not Wisely but "Too Well," know how to be grateful to her for that Her people are neither bad nor goody in extremes. "Lady Di" is a powerful, fearless, natural sketch, and "Mowbray" and "Azalea" are almost as well done.

Of course the book is painful. But, in point utter grief, nor the good marry and live happily forever after. The moral of life, after all, is very much now what it was in Hamlet's time, and this story is very true to its motto "Why let the stricken deer go weep,

The hart ungailed play-For some must watch while some must sleep, So Runs the World Away."
